TRUSTEES' REPORT.

The Trustees of the Peabody Institute herein present their annual report to the citizens of the town.

The reports of the several Committees and Treasurer, will give a detailed account of the running of the different departments of the Institute which will be interesting to the citizens of the town.

The finances of the Institution are in a satisfactory condition, and well invested; and in connection with this subject the Trustees find themselves in a very embarrassing position.

They have been obliged to invest some of the securities at a much lower rate of interest, and fear that will be the case with all the securities coming due in the near future; now the question is, where can they make reduction of expenses to meet and conform with income.

We are of the opinion that it should be taken from the Lecture Committee. The Trustees would be glad to hear any suggestion from the Library and Lyceum Committee in regard to this matter, which will be carefully considered.

The Trustees wish to congratulate the Library Committee on the choice of Librarian. They notice many improvements about the Library, which they think will be appreciated by the patrons of the Library.

The Trustees find all of the officers and employees about the Institute performing their duties satisfactorily and for one common interest.

WILLIAM P. CLARK,

PEABODY, Feb. 6, 1899.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

LYCEUM AND LIBRARY COMMITTEE.

TO THE TRUSTEES OF THE PEABODY INSTITUTE:

Gentlemen:—As you well know, the sad and unfortunate accident which befell Mr. Upton, made it necessary that a new librarian be appointed by the Lyceum and Library Committee, and we felt that in appointing Mr. Lyman P. Osborn to fill the position no mistake was made; and I know that all of the committee will support me in saying that he is a man especially fitted for the position, being keen to observe the needs of the library and quick to do that which is for the best interests of same, also untiring in his efforts to bring the standard of the library with the best in the State, and as he is always courteous and accommodating to all, it makes it a pleasure for the patrons to avail themselves of the opportunities the Peabody Library so bountifully affords.

The other matters pertaining to the past year's work are so fully covered by the reports of the sub-committees, that nothing more need be added.

GEO. C. FARRINGTON,

Chairman Lyceum and Library Committee.

FEBRUARY 6, 1899.

LIBRARY COMMITTEE.

The accident which befell our late librarian, J. Warren Upton, near the close of last year, was of a nature so grievous that it incapacitated him from the further performance of his duties. It was the termination of the active years of one whose career, both as schoolmaster and librarian, had been honorable and successful. In his affliction he has the deepest sympathy of the committee.

At a meeting of the committee called for that purpose, Messrs. Carroll, Osborn and Bushby were appointed to take charge of the affairs of the library for the time being. The clerical work was performed by Mr. Bushby and Mr. Osborn. In performance of the duties devolving on this special committee, they received the intelligent assistance of Mr. John McKeen, the janitor.

The condition of Mr. Upton remaining unchanged, it became necessary to elect a new librarian; when the new committee met for organization, Lyman P. Osborn was chosen to fill the position. He had been a member of the Library Committee for many years, and in his capacity as chairman of that body had made himself familiar with the resources as well as the aim and scope of the library. Its condition at the present time is ample warrant for the action of the committee. He brings to his daily duties unvarying courtesy and untiring industry.

The committee early in the year found it necessary to furnish the librarian with a more complete working outfit, which included among other indispensable articles a typewriter. In the essentials befitting the requirements and dignity of such an institution, it is believed the library is well equipped.

The cost of binding and rebinding is an item that increases as times goes on. In addition to the ordinary expenditure for this purpose, it was found during the thorough examination which all the books in the library received this year, that many old sets, most of them rare and valuable, the special gifts of Mr. George Peabody, were in a condition that required immediate attention. The unusual, in some respects unlooked for, expenses arising from the conditions named made serious inroads on the sum allotted for the purchase of new books. The appeal to the Trustees on the gravity of the situation, met with a generous response. A sum of money adequate for every purpose was granted for the use of the committee, in addition to the amount given to the librarian for the completion of the card catalogue.

During the winter it was noticed that there was an absence of good order and decorum in the conduct of many young boys who frequented the reading room, especially in the evenings. Children of tender years, many of whom should have been at home, came there as a regular resort, seemingly oblivious to their privileges and utterly regardless of the comfort of the older readers who might be present. Very reluctantly the committee decided to exclude all children under fourteen years of age from the room after seven o'clock in the evening. The enforcement of this rule has been entirely satisfactory. The adults and those studiously inclined, have come back finding quietude and satisfaction in their surroundings. The proposed amendment to the by-laws, creating a special committee for the reading room, will be beneficial in many ways.

The committee have faithfully attended to their duties. The attendance at the meetings has been regular, and the interest in the work fully sustained. The accessions to the library have been chosen with deliberation and care, with a sense of the responsibility the position imposes on every member.

The year has been an eventful one, yet one of distinct progress. It may be said with truth that the library is being brought closer to the people, that it is growing in usefulness and becoming each day a more potent factor in the comfort and well being of the community.

THOMAS CARROLL, Chairman.

PEABODY, February 3, 1899.

LYCEUM COMMITTEE.

TO THE LYCEUM AND LIBRARY COMMITTEE:

The Lyceum Committee respectfully submit their report for the season of 1898-99.

The Lyceum course of this season consisted of eight lectures, all of which proved interesting and acceptable to the large audiences who attended them. Prominence was given to subjects connected with the great questions which confronted the nation during the year, more particularly those relating to the territories which were brought under the influence of the United States.

Those interested in music and the drama, also found topics that proved interesting to them.

One lecture of the course was given in the Town hall, the expense of which was defrayed by private contributions. The audience at this lecture was nearly twice the number that could be accommodated at the Institute hall. Out of the small appropriation for the Lyceum, the committee do not feel justified in paying for the Town hall, however much the necessity for a larger hall is apparent.

If the Town hall was available, so that those who would like to attend the lectures could feel sure of securing a seat without being subjected to the inconvenience of being present more than an hour before the commencement of the lecture, it is probably safe to assume that the attendance would be increased twenty-five to fifty per cent. The committee have endeavored to discharge their duty faithfully and trust that their labors may have resulted in accomplishing the best results for the Lyceum.

The following is a list of the lectures:

Nov. 17. Henry W. Raymond, Subject, "Modern Navy." (Illustrated).

Dec. 1. Dr. John C. Bowker. Subject, "Hawaii." (Illustrated.)

Dec. 8. Col. George W. Bain. Subject, "The Golden Gate or Age and Land in which we Live."

Dec. 15. Rev. A. A. Berle, D. D. Subject, "Political Future of the United States."

Dec. 22. Frederick W. Bancroft. Subject, "Irish Songs and Song Writers."

Dec. 29. Rt. Rev. T. J. Conaty, D. D. Subject, "The Celtic Influence in English Literature."

Jan. 5. Dr. Eugene May. Subject, "Cuba, the Pearl in the Mire."

Jan. 12. Henry A. Clapp. Subject, "Falstaff."

For the Committee,

P. H. O'CONOR, Chairman.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE OF THE EBEN DALE SUTTON REFERENCE LIBRARY.

A list of the additions to the library for the past year will be found in the annexed report of the librarian. The larger part of the books treat of different phases of early American and especially New England history. Among the more important of the other works are the Dictionary of National Biography, the Century Atlas, the Boston Public Library, and the Library of Congress at Washington.

In accordance with the suggestion of last year's committee, the bindings of some of the older volumes have been repaired, and several works, which were published and have remained in portfolio form, have been bound, making them available for general consultation.

A copy of the card catalogue has been made, and is to be inserted in the similar catalogue of the circulating library, and cannot fail to be of assistance to students making use of the same. It will, we hope, help to bring the resources of the Sutton Library to the attention of many, who might otherwise overlook them.

The increased number of consultations, 1,036, the largest in the history of the library, is very gratifying and is certainly, in part at least, due to the zeal of the librarian, Miss Daniels, and the efficient co-operation of the librarian of the circulating library, Mr. Lyman P. Osborn.

For the Committee,
WARREN D. KING, Chairman.

AUGUSTA F. DANIELS, Librarian.

LIBRARIAN'S REPORT.

TO THE LYCEUM AND LIBRARY COMMITTEE:

The report of the librarian for the year ending January 31, 1899, is respectfully submitted.

Early in the year the necessity of making certain changes in the arrangement of the library became apparent; it was therefore decided to close during the first two weeks in August, during which time the books were cleaned and rearranged so as to give needed room in several classes that were badly crowded. Some 5,000 of the books were also renumbered. It is worthy of note that on the night of July 31, the date set for the return of all books to the library, but seven volumes remained in the hands of borrowers; four of these were returned the following day, and it was necessary to send for only one.

All the books being on the shelves, the opportunity was improved to make an actual count by classes, no such statistics being in existence. The result shows that on February 1, 1898,

The library contained,	35,222	volumes.
Added during the year,	698	"
Withdrawn during the year,	21	"
Total in the library, January 31, 1899,	35,899	"

The increase in the number of volumes in the library, February 1, 1898, over the number given in last year's report, is chiefly caused by including in this count, for the first time, the Specifications and Drawings and Official Gazettes of the United States Patent Office.

The circulation for the year was 33,648, which compares favorably with previous years, allowance being made for the three weeks during which no books were delivered.

During the summer the building committee of the trustees furnished a new alcove of the modern type, eight shelves in height and all accessible from the floor without the use of step-ladders.

It is by far the most convenient alcove in the library, and it is hoped that future additions may be of this pattern.

In August the system was inaugurated of displaying new accessions on a counter in order that borrowers might examine them and select what they desired. The plan has worked satisfactorily and has been appreciated. An average of 75 volumes has been assigned to this counter, and 50 to 60 of these have been in constant circulation.

The unsatisfactory condition of our catalogues has long been an annoyance both to the public and to the management, and the putting of the card catalogue in condition for use by borrowers has been determined upon as the most feasible remedy. In October the trustees made a special appropriation for fitting the card cases with lock guard rods and guide cards. The work of rearranging the cards and writing and inserting the guide cards has been carried on as time permitted, and it is regretted that pressure of other duties prevented the completion of the work during the past year. It is hoped that it may be completed early the present year.

The system of printing lists of accessions on slips to be pasted in scrap-books has been discontinued, and each six months a bulletin of accessions in pamphlet form has been issued; it has been found practical to print an edition of these bulletins for free distribution, in addition to those needed in our own catalogues, at about the price formerly paid for the printed slips.

The work of the assistants was performed in a satisfactory manner during the past year, and this opportunity is taken to acknowledge the co-operation and assistance so cheerfully rendered at all times by our janitor, Mr. McKeen.

The following statistics are presented in a somewhat different form from those of previous years; it is believed they give a comprehensive view of the condition and working of the library, and form a basis of comparisons for future years.
